Picture Description¹⁾

An infrared photograph captures a gothic cathedral next to a modern building, with figures in the foreground.

Analysis¹⁾

This vibrant and surreal photograph presents a cityscape transformed by the use of intense color filters. On the left, a towering gothic structure, possibly a cathedral, is rendered in fiery reds and oranges, contrasting sharply with the deep blue sky. The architectural details are exaggerated, creating a sense of grandeur and slight distortion. To the right, a more modern building, characterized by its curved lines and layered construction, is depicted in equally bold hues, with streaks of yellow and blue accentuating its form. The street scene in the foreground appears populated with indistinct figures, their presence adding to the overall dynamism and otherworldly feel of the composition. The artwork invites the viewer to reconsider familiar urban landscapes through a lens of heightened sensory perception.
