LAPPAJARVI or EVIJARVI II

Picture Description¹⁾

A straight, wet asphalt road stretches through a landscape dotted with tall, slender trees and occasional streetlights against a cloudy sky.

Analysis¹⁾

This photograph captures a long, straight road stretching into the distance under a heavy, overcast sky. The asphalt is damp, reflecting the diffused light and emphasizing the road's texture. Flanking either side are dense forests, their dark green foliage contrasting sharply with the muted gray of the sky and road. On the left, tall, slender trees with reddish-brown trunks create a striking vertical rhythm, while the right side is dominated by a thicker, more imposing stand of evergreens. The composition is balanced by the road cutting through the middle, leading the eye towards a vanishing point far in the distance. The somber palette and stark contrast evoke a sense of solitude and the vastness of the natural landscape.
