Warning

Picture Description¹⁾

A stack of German road signs warning of a business route, steel bridge, ice danger, and allowing pedestrians and cyclists.

Analysis¹⁾

This photograph captures a German road sign. At the top is a circular red and white sign with the word "Betriebsweg" in black letters, indicating a service road. Below it is a rectangular white sign with black text that reads "Achtung Stahlbrücke", followed by "Erhöhte Glättegefahr", warning of a steel bridge and increased risk of slipperiness. The last rectangular white sign below these features a bicycle symbol along with the words "und Fußgänger frei", indicating that bicycles and pedestrians are permitted. The sign is mounted on a gray metal post. The background is blurred, featuring indistinct buildings and structures, suggesting an urban or industrial setting.
