

009123

Fallen Angel

Picture Description¹⁾

A dead bird lies spread out on a gray asphalt surface, its wings still partially intact amidst scattered feathers and debris.

Analysis¹⁾

This photograph presents a stark and unsettling scene. It captures the remnants of a bird, seemingly crushed and dismembered, lying upon a textured grey asphalt surface. The birdwings, with their delicate feathers partially intact, are spread out in a macabre display. The central mass of the bird is a jumble of dark, mangled organic matter, interspersed with fragments of bone and feather. The coarse texture of the asphalt provides a harsh contrast to the once graceful form of the bird. The overall effect is one of abrupt violence and the fragility of life, evoking feelings of sadness and loss.

Picture Data

	Type / Size	By	Web Link
Exposure	Digital	Frank Titze	 Frank Titze art (DE) - Artwork Link - Portrate (DE) 489123
Developing	—	—
Enlarging	—	—
Scanning	—	—
Processing	Digital	Frank Titze
	Exposure	Processing	Published
Dates	05/2020	05/2020	12/2021
	Width	Height	Bits/Color
Original Size	6877 px	4912 px	16
Ratio ca.	1.40	1	—
Exposure	24x36 mm
Location	—
Title (German)	Gefallener Engel

Remarks

¹⁾Text is AI generated - NOT reviewed and/or corrected