Ulm Minster in Grey

Picture Description¹⁾

A monochrome urban scene shows people walking along a street with buildings on either side, leading towards a distant church spire.

Analysis¹⁾
