Old in New II

Picture Description¹⁾

A distorted reflection of buildings in a modern glass facade creates an abstract urban landscape.

Analysis¹⁾

This captivating photograph presents an abstract architectural scene, where the facade of a vintage brick building is reflected in the sleek, gridded windows of a modern skyscraper. The reflections are distorted and warped, creating a painterly effect that blurs the lines between reality and illusion. The warm, golden hues of the brick contrast with the cool, metallic tones of the window frames, evoking a sense of time and transition. The play of light and shadow adds depth and texture to the photograph, inviting the viewer to contemplate the relationship between the old and the new, the solid and the ephemeral.
