Sparrow Protection IV

Picture Description¹⁾

Three white bird sculptures rest on a stone-tiled surface.

Analysis¹⁾

This photograph presents a collection of stylized, off-white bird sculptures, seemingly crafted from concrete or a similar material. The birds are depicted in a low-flying or resting posture, their wings subtly spread. The artist places the sculptures directly on a patterned tile surface with grey and reddish hues, integrating the artwork into the existing environment, blurring the line between art and everyday life. The use of a muted color palette and simple forms creates a serene and contemplative atmosphere.
