Stairs behind Grossmünster I

Picture Description¹⁾

A high-angle shot captures a curved stone staircase with a white stripe bordering cobblestone pavement, leading up to a building entrance.

Analysis¹⁾

This striking composition captures a descending stone staircase curving sharply from a building entrance to a cobblestone street. The stairs are delineated by a thick white stripe, providing a stark contrast against the dark, weathered stone. The wet surface reflects ambient light, adding depth and texture. A curved stone wall with a handrail follows the stairs, further emphasizing the spiral descent. The play of light and shadow, combined with the contrasting textures of stone and cobblestone, creates a dramatic and somewhat surreal urban landscape.
